NOTES: • RRIF/LRIF/pRRIF/LIF/RLIF plans of every jurisdiction share the same minimum payment rates. LIF/RLIF plans have maximums that vary by jurisdiction.

- Prince Edward Island does not have pension legislation.
- No proration is required on the maximum in the first year of LIF payments for British Columbia, Manitoba, New Brunswick, Quebec or Alberta where a LIF is opened during the year.
- If you are receiving temporary income, the maximum amount you receive could be adjusted.

FOOTNOTES:

- 1) • Manitoba allows transfers of up to 50% from a LIRA to a prescribed RRIF. Prescribed RRIFs do not have maximum withdrawal limits.
 - 2) • The maximum LIF payment for Manitoba is the greater of the percentage in the above columns or the sum of the previous year's investment return plus 6% of any amounts transferred in from a LIRA or pension plan in the current year.
 - 3) • The maximum LIF payment for Alberta, British Columbia, Newfoundland and Labrador, and Ontario is the greater of the percentage in the above columns or the previous year's investment return.
- Saskatchewan allows transfers from a LIRA to a prescribed RRIF. Prescribed RRIFs do not have maximum withdrawal limits.
 - Saskatchewan LIFs have not been offered since April 2002. Any pre-existing LIF must be converted to a life annuity before December 31 of the year in which you turn 80. Since the LIF will cease to exist at this date, subsequent maximum payment rates do not apply.
